

When to Use

Site Availability: Dynamic Only. Pagelet Only

Use the Randomizer page type to create a pagelet that displays random content from a set of pagelets as defined under a parent category pagelet. The content from other pagelets will display within the randomizer pagelet area each time a page with a randomizer pagelet assigned to it is visited or refreshed.

Examples of when to use

- ▶ To promote a series of upcoming events.
- ▶ To display a series of images that represents a section of a website. Presenting a number of images instead of one imbedded image can add page appeal.
- ▶ To provide a set of FAQ's, statistics, or other factual information with links to more content.
- ▶ To "put a face" on your organization. Highlight a department's employees and introduce them to your customers, citizens, students and other employees.

Randomizer Page Tips!

- ▶ Prepare your content prior to creating a Randomizer pagelet.
- ▶ A Category pagelet must be used as the parent to organize the content pagelets under.
- ▶ When creating the content to be displayed, keep in mind the available display space. All of your content pages should fit within the same space.
